astrologer, and spent his time at night gazing at the sky. His friend Joe was also there. In the evening he was walking along the open road outside the village. His eyes were fixed on the stars. He thought he saw there that the end of the world was at hand, when all at once, he fell into a hole full of mud and water. There he stood up to his ears, in the muddy water, clawing at the slippery sides of the hole in his effort to climb out. Help soon brought the villagers running. As they pulled him out of the mud, one of them said, "Don't pretend to read the future in the stars, and yet you fail to see what is at your feet!" Another said, "Don't expect you to pay more attention to what is right in front of you, and let the future take care of itself." A third said, "What use is it," said another, "to read the stars, when you can't see what's right here?" A fourth said, "Take care of the little things and the big things will take care of themselves."
